

CAPE HORN LOOP TRAIL 7.6 MILES 1,400' ELEVATION GAIN

Cape Horn Trail Map Provided by Cape Horn Conservancy
www.CapeHornTrail.org

Routine maintenance of this trail is performed by volunteers.
If you find an issue along the trail that needs attention please report it by emailing to: CapeHornConservancy@gmail.com

TRAILHEAD ELEVATION
500'

PIONEER POINT

1.5 Mi.

1,300'

TUNNEL
Beacon Rock
9 Miles

STRUNK RD.

14

TRAIL FOLLOWS
ROAD FOR 1-1/4 MI.

NANCY RUSSELL OVERLOOK

OAK MITIGATION PROJECT AREA

2.5 Mi.

1,200'

TUNNEL

150'

Washougal
9 Miles

WATERFALL

Footbridge

N

LOWER TRAIL

SECTION CLOSED
FEB 1 - JULY 15

CAPE HORN TRAIL
FULL LOOP OPEN JULY 16 - JANUARY 31
UPPER TRAIL OPEN YEAR ROUND

The trail begins across Salmon Falls Road from the parking area. Take the right fork (Upper Trail) when you enter the woods. Most of the climbing is in the first mile or so, bringing you up to a series of viewpoints. KEEP LEFT whenever the route seems unclear. After the viewpoints, the trail descends gently to an old road bed, then ascends, coming out onto a paved road. Cross the road, turn left and follow the pathway onto the closed gravel road heading through the hayfields. In 1/4 mile the trail turns left off the road, winding down to the Nancy Russell Overlook on a gravel path. In this area you will notice some construction activity where an oak woodland is being established. During the lower trail closure months this lookout is a good turn-around destination.

Beyond the overlook the trail continues downhill through the woods and under the highway. 1/4 mile beyond the highway underpass you come to a trail junction. To the left is a viewpoint, to the right is a connector to the highway, and straight ahead is the main trail. The seasonal lower trail closure is a short distance past this junction. The main trail below this junction is easy to follow, taking you down to the bluffs above the Columbia River, in front of a waterfall, and finally out onto Cape Horn Road. Walk 1 1/4 mile up the road until you see the trail off to the left leading to a highway underpass that takes you back to the beginning of the trail.